

exactphilosophy.net

avantgarde

Web archives

Some selected archive copies of this website in the past.

Just download the respective zip file, unzip it and open index.html in your favorite web browser,

Web 2009

Richer in content (but also of more varying quality) than most versions before and after until about 2015.

web2009.zip

- architecture – Click on my email on the top-left corner for separate overviews for readers coming from science, astrology or philosophy.
- elementary philosophy and the first subsection of evolutions – Basically the same fundamental idea about describing elements in terms of in/out and rest/move as is still the foremost topic on my website today (2016).
- long-range feelings – Various considerations around the nature and potential range of feelings and how that could potentially explain many phenomena in this world quite uniformly.
- elementary star signs – My model of the star signs in terms of transformations between the four greek elements.
- magic carpets – An explanation of my general method of association for exploring symbolic worlds and some applications involving astrology and ancient Chinese culture.
- moebius lego – A text that I would now (2016) classify as some kind of precognition of my explorations of “the moon” that followed in 2010, in two versions, one possibly typed only with my left hand.
- reflectivity – Some ruminations on science and my personal odyssey.

Web 2016

The website as of 5 August 2016, on which the book exactphilosophy.net 2016 is based.

web2016.zip

Features the first mention of my association of the 8 trigrams of the I Ching with the 8 transitions in Aristotle's circle of the elements.